

Communities, cities and people are at the forefront of building community-owned renewable energy, creating green jobs, and tackling energy poverty. Here is one such story from the ...

The case study area in Budapest, Hungary contains traditional apartment houses, built around the turn of the 19th-20th century. Their physical and energetic state are deteriorated, resulting ...

The main points of action for Budapest, according to the mayor, are increasing the share of renewable energy in the municipality's consumption. In that regard, mayor Kar&#225;csony said that public ...

The aim of this study was to facilitate a portfolio analysis of the Budapest 18 (BP18) Municipality that would allow the portfolio managers to make decisions about where to invest next in the renovation of ...

We have a lot of historical buildings in Budapest that we need to preserve, but they are also a big challenge to our efforts to reduce energy consumption," says &#193;mon.

For them, besides the aforementioned convenience services, environmental consciousness, energy conservation and the reduction of our carbon footprint are also important. This means a new kind of ...

With fresh strategic insights, stronger connections to the wider ManagEnergy network, and an empowered team, the Budapest Climate Agency is well on its way to becoming a key player ...

This program aims to address a critical issue: nearly 40% of carbon dioxide emissions in Budapest come from residential buildings, with the vast majority of residents living in energy ...

This month we travel to Budapest, Hungary, to explore two new energy communities sprouting from vibrant cultural and social communities. We talked about their inspiring work, the ...

The Municipality of Budapest has established its brand-new institution, the Budapest Climate Agency, to accelerate energy efficiency investment projects in the city. The agency will begin ...

Energy conservation budapest

Web: <https://www.upstreamjhb.co.za>

